Dallas, TX - December 13, 2018 Quest of the Keys Author and Founder, Scotty Sanders, is finishing strong in 2018 as he looks toward opportunities in the new year. He is heading up a year end fundraising campaign that will enable schools to utilize the award winning character curriculum during the 2019 school year. Quest of the Keys engages young adults through a fictional format presented as an engaging and thrilling adventure where students are on an amazing journey in search of hidden keys that will unlock the true secrets of success.

"The Quest of the Keys had a strong, positive impact on all of our students. The novel encouraged them to reflect on their purpose and goals in life and challenged them to become the best versions of themselves possible. I really appreciated that the book tied into our curriculum so smoothly. While enjoying the story, our students were able to explore plot development and characterization; they were able to strengthen their literacy skills in an authentic, engaging manner," stated Mrs. Edge, a 6th Grade ELA/LEAP instructor for McKamy Middle School.

"We have seen the success and impact Quest of the Keys has had in the schools who have implemented the curriculum and we want to make as many copies available as possible ," stated Scotty Sanders, Author and Founder of Quest of the Keys. "The book makes a great Christmas gift for teens or middle school children."

Mr. Sanders was recently interviewed by Alexa Conomos during a segment of Believers in Business. He discussed the purpose of Quest of the Keys which is to empower the next generation to discover their purpose, unlock their potential and live with passion. Before striking out on his new journey, Decklen receives assistance from the sage Octavius.
